"Ofir Raul Graizer breathes new life into the love triangle with his highly accessible follow-up to his internationally successful debut "The Cakemaker."

- Neil Young, Screen Daily

"A colorful, affecting melodrama... should resonate warmly with the same audience that made "The Cakemaker" an arthouse sleeper." - Guy Lodge, Variety

Running Time 115 Minutes. Not Rated. In Hebrew and English with English Subtitles.

Eli (Michael Moshonov) is a former champion swimmer from Israel now giving swimming lessons in Chicago. When he learns his estranged father has died, he dutifully returns to Tel Aviv to sort out his father's affairs. There he reconnects with his childhood friend and former swimming partner Yotam (Ofri Biterman) who lives with his fiancée Iris (Oshrat Ingadashet). There is a palpable, secret attraction between the two men they are loathe to discuss in this lyrical and understated love triangle.
